

A partnership powered by trust and quality

Robert Bosch GmbH is a German company headquartered in Stuttgart and is the world's largest automotive industry supplier. This leading manufacturer of industrial technology, consumer goods, and energy and building technology employs over 421,000 people, and operates in more than 60 countries.

Computacenter has been supporting Bosch with IT solutions and services for more than 25 years. During this time, Computacenter and Bosch have collaborated to deliver business value through IT transformation and support. Computacenter has established a strong track record of reliable performance through working hard to understand Bosch's needs, and consistently bringing the best of Computacenter's capabilities together to help them achieve their goals.

Strategic alignment delivering digital transformation

Bosch products and services are designed to inspire people, improve their quality of life, and conserve natural resources. They aim to consistently deliver reliability and the highest quality, supported by their digitalisation strategy. Computacenter supports this strategy through the delivery of quality IT services which enrich the end user experience, improve their productivity and increase security. Our circular services support Bosch in their mission to create technology 'invented for life', and commitment to conserve natural resources.

Powering the future, enabling innovation

Computacenter has earned Bosch's trust to deliver a large range of international IT services with quality and integrity, enabling Bosch to supply innovative products and services to their millions of customers, and deliver a modern work experience to their employees. Computacenter provides international services to Bosch across their whole IT environment.

We continue to help transform digital services at 440 Bosch locations, optimising business productivity, security, and digitalisation. Our powerful partnerships with leading technology vendors have helped to deliver planning certainty and cost savings for Bosch as they continue to develop and innovate their network environment.
